ABOUT EMA CONSULTING

EMA Consulting was established in 1997 and provides consulting services, training and products to employers across all States and Territories of Australia. Our clients vary from small sole traders and partnerships through to some of Australia's largest employers and employer associations in both the public and private sectors.

We act exclusively for employers in respect to their needs and obligations arising from Industrial Relations, Work Health and Safety (WHS) and associated laws.

WORKPLACE TRAINING

EMA Consulting provides training on various topics including:

- Employee Management, including organisations with EMS
- Absenteeism Management
- Harassment and Diversity in the Workplace
- Industrial Relations for Managers (general)
- Work Health and Safety legislation

In addition we provide customised training courses and workshops to suit our clients' needs.

The principle objectives of our training courses are for attendees to obtain usable skills and knowledge which can be applied upon their return to the workplace, whilst achieving the necessary compliance with workplace laws.

Where appropriate our training is accompanied by additional resources to assist attendees when drawing on the skills and knowledge obtained during training.

Webinars - Online Training

In addition to 'face-to'face' class room training, EMA Consulting offers online training.

Our online training is delivered using GoToTraining® and is engaging, practical and focussed on achieving understanding and compliance. The courses incorporate interactive case studies and assessments that are dynamically generated to verify participant understanding.

OUR TRAINERS

Training delivered by Industrial Relations specialists, EMA Consulting

Shayne Bakewell

Principal Consultant | Director | Trainer

Shayne's main focus lies in assisting clients in the areas of representation/advocacy in various industrial tribunals, negotiation and dispute management. Shayne has a passion and particular strength in assisting high level management in strategic planning for Industrial and Employee Relations.

His ability to think outside the square and understand a client's business ensures he leads his clients seamlessly through what would otherwise be stressful situations.

Shayne has a Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting) and Masters Degree in Industrial Relations.

Prior to starting the company in 1997, Shayne held a senior position at the South Australian Employers Chamber of Commerce and Industry and also various senior industrial relations positions within Ansett.

CHOOSE YOUR CASE STUDY

There are five case study options for you to choose from in the Refresher Course.

PERFORMANCE BASED CASE STUDY

The case studies used in this version of the course focus on an employee's performance in their role, and how EMSpro is used to investigate, counsel, set plans, warn or even terminate an employee's employment on the basis of unsatisfactory performance.

MISCONDUCT CASE STUDY

The case studies used in this version of the course focus on an employee's behaviour or conduct at the workplace, and how EMSpro is used to investigate, counsel, warn or even terminate an employee's employment on the basis of their conduct or behaviour.

BULLYING CASE STUDY

The case studies used in this version of the course focus on a complaint of bullying at the workplace, and how EMSpro is used to investigate, counsel, warn or even terminate an employee's employment on the basis of bullying.

EMPLOYEE ABSENTEEISM CASE STUDY

The case studies used in this version of the course focus on the issues arising from an employee's absenteeism from the workplace, and how EMSpro is used to investigate, counsel, warn or even terminate an employee's employment where issues concerning absenteeism arise.

NB: it is highly recommended that attendees have attended EMA's Managing Absenteeism course before attending this course. Please check with EMA on how these courses can be combined over a two day period.

DEVELOPS CLIENT SPECIFIC CASE STUDY

The case studies used in this version of the course will be designed from scratch by our team of Industrial Relations experts using information supplied by the client. Using the agreed client based case study scenario(s) and materials, we see how EMSpro is used to investigate, counsel, warn or even terminate an employee's employment on the information and scenario specifically requested by you.

BULLYING & HARASSMENT TRAINING

Is your organisation doing everything reasonably practicable to manage the risk of harassment in the workplace?

Can you prove your employees understand what is and what is not harassment?

In addition to other laws, workplace safety laws place a strict obligation on businesses, officers, workers and other persons to ensure the health and safety of persons in the workplace. As we all know harassment (including workplace bullying) poses a serious risk in the workplace including death. It is essential that all duty holders can establish that have complied with their duty in relation to preventing and managing the risks associated with this unacceptable behaviour. A critical element of that duty for an employer is education and ensuring all workers understand their obligations, including the obligation to report.

This course provides the necessary information for all attendees to easily understand the seriousness of this type of behaviour, their respective obligations in respect of it and consequences of non-compliance.

Course content:

- Effects of harassment
 - On victims
 - On others
 - On the employer
- Why do people harass
- Various forms of harassment
 - Workplace Bullying
 - Racial Harassment
 - Sexual Harassment
 - What isn't harassment
- Social media and out of hours conduct
- Laws governing harassment
- Workers obligations in relation to harassment
- Costs related to harassment
- Vicarious liability and defences
- Case Studies

UNDERSTANDING THE FAIR WORK ACT

Industrial relations is a now critical business issue, with potential significant impact. It is no longer a “soft skill”.

Can you answer these questions?

How do we know which award applies - and what if we get it wrong?

What rules apply if I want to restructure my business, or part of my business?

What are the special risks when we take over another business?
What do we do if a union wants to come on site?

Exactly what is “adverse action” and how do we avoid massive penalties?

Can workers claim bullying as an excuse?

Industrial Relations is more technical and complex than ever. In some areas, even employers who make innocent mistakes are suffering significant penalties. Even though you probably understand many aspects, do you feel there are gaps in your knowledge?

Don't let unions and your employees explain their version of the rules - build your understanding first.

Course content:

- The Common Law Contract of Employment
- National Employment Standards
- Continuous service
- Awards
- Enterprise Agreements
- Dismissal and discipline
- Restructure and redundancy
- Workplace Bullying and Stop Bullying Orders
- Union Right of entry
- Industrial Action
- General Protections (Adverse Action)
- Transfer of business
